“ I remember that it had been a few years since being with Uncle Sham. Mary, Rod and I were at the Fireside Tavern, walking in the parking lot to the entrance doors. Uncle Sham saw us in the lot, saw me, with my long hair, moustache and beard, and started up... " HEY! I KNOW YOU! YOU'RE THAT TERRORIST! I SAW YOU IN THAT MOVIE!

We all laughed our asses off, "DIE HARD" with Bruce Willis, and Alan Reitman had just started it's very successful run at the local theaters.

All night long, whenever he saw me, and ESPECIALLY in yelling range... "HEY! I KNOW YOU! YOU'RE THAT TERRORIST! I SAW YOU IN THAT MOVIE!, or, I SAW THAT TERRORIST IN THAT MOVIE!"

We love and miss you both, have fun in Heaven, and (hopefully) I will be with you in the future. Remember, I look like that Terrorist!

What did he say in the movie? Oh yea... yippie ki yea!!!

LOVE, LOVE, LOVE!!!

“ R.I.P. Uncle Sham... You were the perfect Uncle, a great combination of sarcasm, humor, concern, and love... Have fun in Heaven, watching down on us, as we stumble thru life. It was always great fun being around you and Aunt Shirley. (hold hands you lovebirds) Mary and I will be with you, and her (hopefully) in the blink of your eye (25 years earth time) We love you and miss you already...
